About the Quad Cities
From our world-famous festivals to our numerous family activities and engaging theatre and art venues, the Quad Cities has something for everyone.

With a metro area population of 350,000, the Quad Cities ranks second only to Chicago in the two-state area of Iowa and Illinois. Whether it’s a concert with the Quad City Symphony Orchestra, a pro hockey game with the Quad City Mallards, or catching a minor league baseball game with the Quad Cities River Bandits at picturesque Modern Woodman Park, there is something sure to catch your interest.

One thing you won’t find in the Quad Cities, however, is a high cost of living. You’ll be pleasantly surprised at the affordable price of apartments in the area.

The Quad Cities is just a few hours away from major metropolitan areas such as Des Moines, Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis. Major airline services are available at the Quad City International Airport minutes away in Moline, Illinois.
