

empowerment { practice }

Graduate credentials are becoming increasingly important in the social work profession. Social workers practice in schools, businesses, hospitals; mental health, child welfare, substance abuse treatment and criminal justice agencies. In addition, veterans' services, family support, aging, community and non-profit organizations are settings where social workers are frequently employed. The employment outlook for social workers is projected to grow by 19 percent by 2022.

Consistent with the purposes of social work and Catholic Social Teaching, the St. Ambrose University School of Social Work seeks to advance the well-being of people, to promote social and economic justice and to protect human rights. Emphasizing client system empowerment, the School prepares graduates to practice competently, ethically and with critical understanding of diversity, human behavior and social contexts. It is our mission to prepare competent and ethical social work professionals who enrich lives and advocate a just society.
