About the Master of Social Work

Graduate credentials are becoming increasingly important in the social work profession. Social workers practice in many areas, including education, health, mental health, child welfare, substance abuse treatment, criminal justice, and veterans services. The specialization received with a master's degree is an asset to both the practitioner and the client in empowerment practice. Also, with this specialization comes the availability for increased choices for employment. Currently the employment outlook for social workers is projected to grow by 14 percent until 2029, well above the national average.

It is the mission of the St. Ambrose University School of Social Work to prepare competent and ethical social work professionals who advocate a just society.

Consistent with the purposes of social work and Catholic Social Teaching, the St. Ambrose University School of Social Work seeks to advance the well-being of people, to promote social and economic justice and to protect human rights. Emphasizing client system empowerment, the School prepares graduates to practice competently, ethically and with critical understanding of diversity, human behavior and social contexts.

Students acquire a comprehensive knowledge base, practice skills, and ethical standards for professional practice. These competencies enable graduates to provide resources and opportunities for people to live with dignity and freedom in their transactions with each other and social institutions locally, nationally, and globally.

The SAU Master of Social Work program prepares empowerment social workers to use a life-long praxis process in order to ensure collaborative, client-centered, multi-level, contextualized practice. Empowerment social workers promote professional social work and advocate for social, economic and environmental justice.
